Anatomic Veterinary (Comparative) Pathologist

Weill Cornell Medical College

New York, NY

Weill Cornell Medical College's (WCMC) and Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center's (MSKCC) Center of Comparative Medicine and Pathology (CCMP) and The Rockefeller University's Comparative Biosciences Center's (CBC) shared Laboratory of Comparative Pathology (LCP) is seeking applicants for a full-time veterinary anatomic pathologist.

Applicants must possess a DVM/VMD from an AVMA-accredited or equivalent institution. Certification by the American or European College of Veterinary Pathologists (ACVP or ECVP) and/or a doctoral degree in a related discipline is preferred, although highly qualified board-eligible applicants will be considered.

Salary and rank will be highly competitive and commensurate with experience. The opportunity for academic appointments is available to the qualified applicant.

Responsibilities include providing diagnostic and research pathology support for these 3 institutions which conduct world-class biomedical research in diverse scientific disciplines.

The CCMP and CBC employ a staff of approximately 300 including 13 veterinarians (11 ACLAM and 2 additional ACVP/ECVP board-certified pathologists) responsible for the daily care and use of approximately 300,000 animals from a variety of species including mice, rats, hamsters, guinea pigs, rabbits, amphibia, livestock, fish, and non-human primates. Specialized facilities include a fully equipped diagnostic laboratory and genetically engineered mouse phenotyping core, rodent and large animal imaging centers, as well as transmission and scanning electron and confocal microscopy facilities. The successful candidate will be actively involved in the training of postdoctoral fellows in laboratory animal medicine and comparative pathology. Collaborative and/or independent research is supported.

Interested individuals should submit a statement of accomplishments, career goals, curriculum vitae, and three letters of reference to:
