The University of Nottingham's School of Veterinary Medicine and Science (SVMS) invites applications for a full-time Clinical Associate Professor in Veterinary Anatomic Pathology with a focus in Companion Animal Pathology. The successful applicant will play an important role in teaching and mentoring undergraduate and postgraduate students and providing clinical service to associate and private practitioners. They will also be expected to supervise undergraduate student research projects and will be encouraged to develop wider independent or collaborative research projects.

Candidates should possess a primary veterinary degree that can be registered with the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons and a further appropriate qualification, ideally at Diploma level, in veterinary anatomic pathology. Candidates in their final year of their residency and eligible to sit and working towards an appropriate qualification may be considered for this position.

Candidates should submit a CV which gives details of academic qualifications, including a career summary and a full list of publications and research grants.

Informal enquiries can be addressed to Michael Clark, email michael.clark2@nottingham.ac.uk or Kerstin Baiker, email kerstin.baiker@nottingham.ac.uk.

Please note that applications sent directly to these email addresses will not be accepted.

Closing date: Friday, 5th of February 2021
