

Veterinary Anatomic Pathologist

The Department of Veterinary Sciences at the University of Wyoming (UW) seeks a tenure-track Veterinary Anatomic Pathologist at the Assistant/Associate Professor level. Minimum requirements include a DVM and a PhD (or equivalent degrees). American College of Veterinary Pathologists Board certification or eligibility (or equivalent) is also required. Demonstrated interest, aptitude, and capability for scholarly activity related to diseases of domestic animals, wildlife, and/or animal models of human disease is highly desirable as is teaching expertise at the undergraduate and graduate level. Excellent interpersonal and communication skills, and a demonstrated ability to work with others in a collegial team atmosphere, are essential.

The candidate will function as a diagnostic pathologist with three other board certified anatomic pathologists within the Wyoming State Veterinary Laboratory (WSVL). Diagnostic duties include gross, histopathological, and cytological examinations on all species of animals to diagnose disease. In addition, successful applicants will establish or maintain a funded and/or collaborative research program, teach at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and collaborate with a vibrant community of basic, clinical, and applied scientists within the Department of Veterinary Sciences and across the University of Wyoming. Position duties include diagnostic service in the WSVL, research or creative activity, teaching, and University service.

Review of applications will begin January 22, 2018, and will continue until a suitable candidate is identified. To be considered please complete the online application including uploading as one pdf document: 1) a cover letter outlining qualifications, 2) curriculum vita, and 3) names and contact information for three professional references to <https://tinyurl.com/VetSciPathologist>.

The University of Wyoming is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability or protected veteran status or any other characteristic protected by law and University policy. To review the EEO is the Law Poster and its Supplement, please see The Diversity & Fairness page.

Pursuant to Wyoming State law, W.S. 19-14-102, as amended, an honorably discharged veteran who has been a resident of the state of Wyoming for one (1) year or more at any time prior to the date when the veteran applies for employment, or any surviving spouse who was married to such veteran at the time of the veteran's death, who is receiving federal survivor benefits based on the veteran's military service and is applying for employment, shall receive an interview preference during the applicant screening process with the University of Wyoming. At the time of application the applicant must possess the business capacity, competency, education or other qualifications required for the position. If disabilities do not materially interfere with performance of job duties, disabled veterans will be given preference over able-bodied veterans. Appropriate documentation of veteran status must be provided at time of application as outlined in the application process. No preference will be given to a veteran currently employed by a public department.

We conduct background investigations for all final candidates being considered for employment. Offers of employment are contingent upon the completion of the background check.

Applicants with disabilities may request accommodation to complete the application and selection process. Please notify Human Resources at least three (3) working days prior to the date of need.

The University of Wyoming invites diverse applicants to consider our employment opportunities. We are also especially interested in candidates who have experience working with diverse populations and/or diverse initiatives.
