

ECVP/ESVP Summer School in Veterinary Pathology

Summer School 2011 – Female Reproductive Tract

Repro6: The section has a caruncle and intercaruncular endometrium. The endometrial surface has a moderate number of neutrophils below the basement membrane and exocytosing. The endometrium is intact and often tall columnar. A small number of neutrophils infiltrate the submucosa and surround glands as well as marginate in vessels. The caruncular surface is mostly epithelialized but often attenuated and it has a mild neutrophilic infiltrate.

MDx Uterus mild suppurative endometritis (This uterus was full of pus, a pyometra)